If you are looking to excel at something, to improve, to be better or to become the best, you hang with best. To make an analogy, and there is not a musical bone in my body, if I wanted to be a Rock

Star, who would I spend my time with and who would I listen to; a Rock Star and his or her circle of influence, right? Of course! Matt Loop is that Rock Star when it comes to making money on-line. I met Matt around 2007 or so when he was just starting out with an email list of about 1000 subscribers and a dream. Matt has worked tirelessly since then learning more about social media and Internet marketing than most experts could learn in a lifetime. His book, its resources, tips, tricks, suggestions and clear to the point "no nonsense" guidance has enough valuable information to keep everyone from novice to self-proclaimed guru busy for months and learning to make BANK. Chapter 21, Partnering Your Way to Wealth and Influence was one of the shortest chapters, but for me it was perhaps the most compelling. When you are in the 50 something stage of life it is sometimes difficult to embrace a whole new set of ways to do business and the technology can seem like a hindrance. As Matt demonstrates, it is just the opposite. We are all busy, too busy and in the beginning of making money on-line you need to pay your dues; or do you? Matt's sage advice on how to find joint-venture partners is excellent. I don't have time to re-invent the wheel and I recognize that a smaller piece of a big pie is better than a large piece of a small pie that nobody can find. Matt teaches you how to find the right people and how to capture their attention and collaborate your way to the bank. This book will take months and years off of the learning curve that often keeps people from entering the game.
