Customer Reviews

Todd Arnold has written a nonfiction story for children between the ages of kindergarten and second grade. The reading level is around second grade. I believe this book will appeal to boys and girls who enjoy learning about animals and in particular snakes. The book is full of photographs of various kinds of snakes. The information is written well and easy to understand..I learned some interesting new facts: the scales of a snake are made of keratin which is the same material that our fingernails are made of. Another fact is that all snakes have the ability to swim. The final fact I will share is that during the reign of the dinosaurs there was a snake that was 40 feet long and weighed 2500 pounds.*I received this for review - all opinions are my own*

My grandson loves all the Fly Guy books. The non-fiction books are really interesting and informative and the fiction books are fun now and will be perfect once he starts reading on his own.

My son (age 6) loves the Fly Guy books! They have a lot of good factual information and can be and again and again.

I purchased this book for the library I work in. It is delightful and children love the format.

The best little books for boys. My son loves this collection and he is 8 years old.

Arrived quickly and was a fun read for a 7 year old!

my son finished it the first day, very interesting

Always a favorite for students
